He says that Mr. Lang threatened to take the plaintiff's life and do him other bodily injury, placing him in great bodily fear. Mr. Wilson further alleges that Mr. Lang threatened to injure him at some time in the future by saying, "I will get you yet." He also says he is still in great fear that the defendant may yet take the life of the plaintiff.

TAKES LARGER POSITION.

Miss Lucy G. Swift, Windham County Farm Demonstration Agent, Resigns.

Brattleboro, July 18.—Miss Lucy G. Swift of this place, home demonstration agent for Windham county under the auspices of the Vermont state extension service and the Windham County Farm bureau, has sent her resignation to Thomas Bradley of Burlington, director of the state extension service. The resignation is to take effect July 24, which is a week from today.

The announcement of Miss Swift's resignation, which some of her acquaintances have known for some days, in contemplation, will be received with regret in this county, as her work since coming here a year ago last February has been of a constructive nature and has been of great assistance to many housewives. The work was of the pioneer order in this county, and it has been placed on a substantial foundation which will yield much larger returns henceforth, provided means are found for continuing it.

Miss Swift will become home bureau manager for Saratoga county, New York, under the direction of the New York state extension service. Her headquarters will be at Saratoga Springs. She is to receive a considerable larger salary than she receives here, and likewise the expense will be more, but it is the wider field and larger opportunity that appeals to Miss Swift principally. New York is one of the foremost states in the union in the development of extension service work. Miss Swift will succeed Miss Caroline Morton, who has been promoted to be one of the assistant state leaders.
